Re: Whittier Rehabilitation Hospital – Certificate of Occupancy

Dear Bill,

As you may be aware, Turner has recently achieved Certificate of Occupancy for the Whittier Rehabilitation Hospital project in Bradford, MA. Whittier will start to occupy the building in early May 08.

The project team (owner, architect/engineer, and Turner) are all extremely pleased with the finished building product. Turner was particularly impressed with the quality of work and professionalism of Iannazzi Electrical. Your team proactively managed the coordination, submittals, procurement, and installation with a high degree of skill and professionalism.

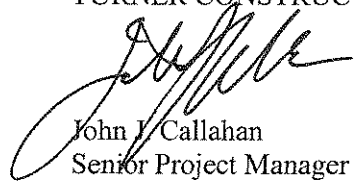

Over the duration of the project, there were many obstacles, challenges, scope changes, and occasional fire drill that needed to be addressed and resolved expeditiously. Again, your team provided valuable input and solutions to these issues and responded consistently in a timely manner.

I would like to recognize a few of your project staff including George Pelletier, John Petrillo, and Dan Bellaqua. George provided the experience, expertise, and overall leadership required to manage a challenging, changing, and time sensitive project. George worked well with the Turner team and effectively managed and controlled the various other electrical vendors within the Iannazzi's contract (e.g. nurse call, telecom, etc.). George and his field staff also reacted quickly and completely to the additional requests of the fire department during their final walkthrough to ensure the fire department sign-off. George was well liked and respected by the entire project team.

John provided the daily field leadership of the many electricians onsite throughout the duration of the project. He worked well with the Turner staff and incorporated the Turner field protocols into his daily work plans. John was very knowledgeable and shared his ideas with the team to provide a better product and be more efficient in the field. Dan successfully managed the 2nd floor electrical work including the difficult head wall coordination and rough-in. He maintained schedule despite some re-sequencing of work.

This was a successful project for Turner and the entire project team. We appreciate the efforts of Iannazzi Electrical in making this project successful. We look forward to working with you and your talented team again in the near future.

Sincerely,
TURNER CONSTRUCTION COMPANY
